Governor Sarah Palin,

Just a note to say that I am very impressed and excited, to say the least, the changes that you are bringing about in Alaska. It was a great article and was looking forward to reading it as the Senior Account Executive of the Alaska Magazine told me a month ago that the article would be coming out in the next issue of the Alaska Magazine. Our prayers are with you in all the decisions that have to be made on a daily basis. We wish the best for Alaska and I know you do to. Blessings to you, your family, staff and everyone in Alaska.

Looks like I'm turning in my state blackberry. I'm not going to log every personal call where most last less than two minutes betw me and Sandy coordinating logistics--some state, some personal.

You guys may want to examine the new policy and see whether you want to be turning in reports every month.

Subject: Update on Tax Policies for Electronic Listed Property

Hello,

Attached are two documents that should be distributed to your employees to update them on where we are with the tax policy for electronic listed property. The "update" document provides some details on what has been decided and what has not. High points include:

* Department of Law is reviewing the draft policy and FAQs that were distributed in December and evaluating them against IRS requirements. Final policy for the State of Alaska is pending this review.

* An annual authorization form is being developed for employees and supervisors to document the agreement on use of electronic listed property. The draft is attached, and feedback is on this draft is appreciated.

* The delay in finalizing our policy means that employee reporting will not occur in February as indicated in the original FAQs. However for W-2s to be accurate for 2008, the reporting period must include January. Employees will be required to report personal use of state-provided assets starting for the full 12 months of 2008.

* Similarly allowances can be paid for months beginning in January when a personal cell phone or PDA is authorized for business use.

* Our substantiation standard for supporting business use of state assets will only require an employee to identify personal use, not support all business use. This should greatly simplify reporting.

* Logs of call detail are not required, but employees may choose to keep them to help them identify personal calls on the cell phone invoices.

* Allowance amounts for personal assets have been set at $40 a month for cell phones and $75 for PDAs.

* No allowance will be paid for personal laptops or home computers without a Telework agreement.

If you or your employees have questions, concerns, or recommendations about information, including the draft form, please contact Lisa Pusich at 465-5616 or me. Thank you for your patience as we work through the details toward a policy we can live with.

MESSAGE:

Governor Palin,

I really admire the work you've done for Alaska. The state needs someone like you with your vision. Also, with your family being involved in fishing you know how important the environment and responsible hunting and fishing are. Too bad you can't come to Maryland and be Governor. We need someone like you!

I'd love to get an autographed picture if possible. I've been collecting pictures of people I admire for years and now that I've got a small daughter (Katya, she's almost 4.) I think it's all the more important I add more women I admire for their work to my collection so they can serve as role models for her.

Keep up the good work and God bless.

Sincerely,

Subject: Nikolski Fuel Crisis Update - January 18th, 2008

Dear All:

The Redeemer vessel began delivery this morning. During off-loading, winds picked up to gusts of 50 to 70 mph. The vessel was using a loader as anchorage. The high winds pushed the vessel offshore and pulled the loader into the water. The community is currently working to pull the loader out during a -6 low tide. An estimated 1,000 gallons of #1 was offloaded before the vessel disconnected. The vessel is returning to Dutch Harbor due to weather predictions allowing no opportunities over the weekend. When weather allows, the vessel will return to finish delivery. There is no evidence of any fuel loss. The fuel on hand will last until further delivery.

A new update will follow Monday.

Southwest Alaska Economic Summit & Annual Membership Meeting Update
January 21, 2008

Dear Sarah,

Just under two weeks remain to register for the Southwest Alaska Economic Summit & Annual Membership Meeting. The Summit will focus on strengthening Southwest Alaska's economy, shoring up its infrastructure, and planning for the region's future. Join us as we celebrate the 20th Anniversary of SWAMC and look forward to The Next 20 Years of regional advocacy and effective partnerships. For more about the agenda, registration, sponsorship and other meeting details, visit the SWAMC web site and see additional updated information below:

Corps Values

Colonel Kevin Wilson of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Alaska District will speak at the Friday luncheon as he lays out the Corps' vision of partnering with State, Federal, Tribal and local stakeholders to formulate a comprehensive Alaska Regional Navigation Transportation System strategy. The Corps is coming off the heels of hosting its first Alaska Regional Ports and Harbors Conference, and Col. Wilson will address the goals and outcomes of that meeting, along with the importance of working together to understand Alaska's future navigation and transportation problems and opportunities. Ports and harbors obviously play a critical role in all that happens in Southwest Alaska, and this will be a chance to understand the Corps of Engineers' perspective in planning for the future needs of the region regarding economic development, safety, environmental protection, and resource sustainability.

Leaving Nothing to Waste

Thursday's lunch program will feature a new project SWAMC has recently undertaken. The Project for Environmental Preservation will seek regional solutions to solid waste issues, including backhaul programs, rural recycling, and general waste-stream reduction. One key component of the program will focus on the removal of marine debris from the region. SWAMC plans to partner with the Marine Conservation Alliance (MCA), NOAA, and other agencies to help keep the waters of Southwest Alaska free and clear of debris.

Bob King, Marine Debris Coordinator for MCA, will give an overview of his work, while Hendrik Van Hemert of SWAMC will introduce the Environmental Preservation program to SWAMC's membership. If your community has solid waste, debris, or other environmental issues, please let us know at the conference. We're looking to partner with groups in the region and beyond as we get the project off the ground.

Pre-Conference Energy Workshop in Anchorage

[x] wind_cows

Prior to the Annual Conference, SWAMC will hold a renewable energy workshop on Wednesday, January 30th from 12:30 to 5 PM at the Hotel Captain Cook. The aim of the workshop is to provide practical knowledge about project planning and financial opportunities to utility managers, city planners and others interested in learning how they can implement alternative/renewable energy into their community. Presenters include: USDA-Rural Development, Alaska Energy Authority, University of Alaska Fairbanks, Renewable Energy Alaska Project, private energy consultants and more. Admission is free for registered Conference attendees and $25 for non-attendees. For more information, please call the SWAMC office at 562-7380 or email Rebekah Luhrs, Energy Project Coordinator. Thanks to the USDA- Rural Development Alaska office for sponsoring the workshop.

Other Panels...

In addition to the discussion forums mentioned above, there will also be panels focusing on fisheries policy, Southwest Alaska's CDQ's, tourism development, seafood marketing, establishing community foundations, expanding economic and entrepreneurial opportunities and more. Lastly, don't forget about the Friday night banquet and the Candidate's Forum for

Privileged or Personal Material Redacted

Update on Tax Policies for Electronic Listed Property – January 17, 2008

Policy on reporting personal use of electronic listed property is still being finalized. Department of Law is reviewing what Division of Finance has proposed. Law has confirmed that proposed policy and methods are technically compliant with IRS requirements. But attorneys are still evaluating those requirements to see if there is a reasonable zone of compliance that will satisfy both the IRS' objectives of ensuring that all employee income, including income from fringe benefits, is reported, and the state's goal of not imposing unreasonable record-keeping requirements on its employees.

Meetings with attorneys will occur next week to get to final policy decisions. More information will be sent out as soon as possible once the decisions are made.

In the meantime, what has occurred since the draft policy framework and FAQs were distributed on 12/24:

1. Implementation will be delayed from the first of February for a couple of months due to delay in finalizing policy. This does not delay the initial reporting period of January 2008 for personal use. Employees who are using state-provided electronic listed property will be required to report their personal use beginning with January so that the W-2s for 2008 are correct.

2. An annual authorization form will be completed by the employee and supervisor to document the listed property authorized, the business purpose, who owns it, and how it will be accounted for. This form is being distributed in draft form now for your feedback before it is finalized.

3. We are changing the requirement from substantiating each business call, to identifying the personal calls, which makes the recordkeeping much simpler for state-provided assets.

4. Logs will not be required by the policy. But employees will be asked to review their cell phone invoices and identify personal calls. So if logs would help them in this effort, they are encouraged to create them. We are looking at methods to get each employee's cell phone bill emailed to them in Excel format for identifying the personal calls.

5. Similarly, personal use of state-provided PDAs and laptops used outside the business premises will need to be reported beginning with January, so employees should maintain whatever records they consider necessary to support this reporting requirement.

6. Proposed allowance amounts for method 4 in the policy framework are $40 for cell phones and $75 for PDAs. Employees can get one or the other, but not both. ETS is determining the types of PDAs that will be supported.

7. No allowances will be given for personal laptop or desktop computers unless a formal Telework agreement is in place.

8. The value of laptops has been set at $24 a month and desktops in employee's homes at $18 a month based on state Dell contract purchases. These amounts will be multiplied by personal use percentage to determine taxable compensation or reimbursement amount by employees for state-provided computers used outside the business premises for method 1 in the policy framework. They will also be used to calculate the reimbursement to employees for substantiated business use of personal laptops for method 3. Note that personal laptops are generally prohibited inside the state's firewall due to security concerns and the related workload on IT staff.

Additional questions or concerns should be directed to Kim Garnero at 465-3435 or Lisa Pusich at 465-5616 in the Division of Finance.

Hello, my name is Michael Dunn; I am a 10th grade Homeschool student with IDEA, which is categorized under the Galena school district. I am in Alaska Close Up this year, and will be attending Session 1 in Juneau (February 25-29, 2008); I am extremely excited to have this opportunity. Now I'd like to tell you a little about myself; I live in the K-Beach area near Soldotna; some of my favorite outdoor activities include riding my bicycle, snow machining, and shoveling my family's 215 ft. driveway. I also enjoy reading, playing soccer, and computer programming (which I have just started learning). I hope to learn as much as possible about our state government while I'm in Juneau, and also visit some historic sites there. Thank you for your time, and I look forward to meeting you.

They are headed to DC Tuesday and Pat is traveling Monday, so they are requesting some of your time on Saturday or Sunday to have a teleconference. Is that something that can work for you? If so, is there anybody besides myself, Tibbles, and Marty that you want involved? Remember that we had the Lt Gov involved last time.

Boss,

We are coming up on another big decision on the PA request for reconsideration. The commissioners are leaning in one direction, but would like to talk to you this weekend. They are headed to DC Tuesday and Pat is traveling Monday, so they are requesting some of your time on Saturday or Sunday to have a teleconference. Is that something that can work for you? If so, is there anybody besides myself, Tibbles, and Marty that you want involved? Remember that we had the Lt Gov involved last time.

Dear Governor Palin:

I am disheartened to hear that you and the legislators are proposing to spend the windfall like all the previous administrations have done. Hasn't government learned from past spending frenzies and what troubles occur when the state runs out of money? Have any of you people ever considered SAVING for the future? Is all this money burning a hole in your pocket? I had higher hopes for you, Governor Sara Palin. What does conservative mean to you?

I voted for you with high hopes for a better, more prudent, state

I am contemplating just going to a pers cell phone. You and I would just talk more--the problem is though you'd have lots more than me tugging you if you don't have BB capability.

Subject: Update on Tax Policies for Electronic Listed Property

Hello,

Attached are two documents that should be distributed to your employees to update them on where we are with the tax policy for electronic listed property. The "update" document provides some details on what has been decided and what has not. High points include:

* Department of Law is reviewing the draft policy and FAQs that were distributed in December and evaluating them against IRS requirements. Final policy for the State of Alaska is pending this review.

* An annual authorization form is being developed for employees and supervisors to document the agreement on use of electronic listed property. The draft is attached, and feedback is on this draft is appreciated.

* The delay in finalizing our policy means that employee reporting will not occur in February as indicated in the original FAQs. However for W-2s to be accurate for 2008, the reporting period must include January. Employees will be required to report personal use of state-provided assets starting for the full 12 months of 2008.

* Similarly allowances can be paid for months beginning in January when a personal cell phone or PDA is authorized for business use.

* Our substantiation standard for supporting business use of state assets will only require an employee to identify personal use, not support all business use. This should greatly simplify reporting.

* Logs of call detail are not required, but employees may choose to keep them to help them identify personal calls on the cell phone invoices.

* Allowance amounts for personal assets have been set at $40 a month for cell phones and $75 for PDAs.

* No allowance will be paid for personal laptops or home computers without a Telework agreement.

If you or your employees have questions, concerns, or recommendations about information, including the draft form, please contact Lisa Pusich at 465-5616 or me. Thank you for your patience as we work through the details toward a policy we can live with.

MESSAGE:

Dear Gov. Palin:

You are my hero! I greatly appreciate and respect all you do for the Alaskan people. (Meta Bottjen is my neighbor and good friend in Seldovia.) I know you support the funding of the AMHS.

My husband and I own and operate this on-line newspaper. Sending the lead article "AMHS in Crisis" in this week's paper for your review.
